

Eric Groteke

Vice President of Business Development

Experience

Starting out as a chiropractic physician in Pennsylvania, Eric Groteke found deep satisfaction providing one-on-one care and relief to the people he encountered. The heartwarming way patients showed their gratitude — whether it was a homemade pie or farm-fresh eggs — stayed with him through the years. From this foundation Eric has built a diverse career in health care, ranging from starting a network of multi-disciplinary clinics to patenting his own innovations in spine care technology.

As Vice President of Business Development at Laser Spine Institute, Eric identifies key growth pillars for the organization while helping develop strategic partnerships in the health care, insurance and business sectors. With a background that demonstrates unwavering commitment to patient care as well as a keen eye for innovations in spine health, Eric has the perfect combination of skills and experience for this role.

Prior to joining Laser Spine Institute, Eric founded Innovative Care Centers in Pennsylvania and Florida. Eric also helped build companies based on his patented technologies, including InjuryCloud/MyMedicalHUB and Spine Pain Management Inc., where he was Chief Technology Officer.

After studying biology and business management at East Stroudsburg University in Pennsylvania, Eric earned his doctor of chiropractic medicine degree from New York Chiropractic College. In addition to having been awarded multiple patents, he is also a frequent speaker and presenter in the spine care field.

In his free time, Eric enjoys spending time with his family and is a coach on both of his sons' soccer teams. He also loves outdoor activities, including fishing, skiing and snowboarding.