

Roger Cary, M.H.A., FACHE

President and CEO

Experience

Roger Cary's career has been devoted to the field of health care, as demonstrated by his track record of more than 30 years of leadership in the industry. Roger has worked across hospital providers and outpatient treatment centers and has a keen understanding of the complex and ever-evolving health care landscape.

As Laser Spine Institute's President and CEO, Roger oversees the company's strategic development, expansion of patient offerings and business operations for Laser Spine Institute's surgical centers across the country. Roger's commitment to high standards of patient care and service are integral to ensuring Laser Spine Institute's vision of helping patients find relief from neck and back pain.

Roger previously held a leadership position at Cancer Treatment Centers of America as the Chief Operating Officer. He is known for leading large scale organizational transformation efforts and facility expansions, increasing operational efficiencies and improving all aspects of health care delivery to patients. Workplace culture is also a top priority for Roger, and he has been known for fostering collaborative work environments. The facilities he led were routinely recognized as "Best Places to Work."

He received his Master of Healthcare Administration and Bachelor of Science in Business Administration from Loma Linda University. Roger was named a fellow of the American College of Healthcare Executives and has served as board member for Vicinitas Cancer Care and Cancer Treatment Centers of America.

In addition to his work, wellness and family are important to Roger. He enjoys many outdoor and athletic activities such as skiing, biking and tennis. Spending time with his wife, children and grandchildren is vital to him.
